

Dance at Country Club.

The Oahu Country Club, which has been the scene of so many of the gay society functions this summer, was probably never more beautiful than on Monday night, when Mr. Vernon Tenney was host at a Yamma Yamma dance, given in honor of Mr. Ernest Gay. The club land was transformed into a veritable bow of green and gold, a color scheme most appropriate for the occasion. Masses of bamboo, ferns and vines were arranged through the club rooms, forming an effective background for the quantities of yellow snow balls that were grouped and festooned from the ceiling. The massive pillars wound with vines and snowballs caught up with yellow tulle completed the effect of brilliancy and bestowed a knowledge of the decorative art in those having charge of the affair. Young men and maidens alike were dressed in the Yamma Yamma costumes, and at first glance it was hard to tell them apart. Mr. Tenney, who is very original, chose something unusual for his mode of entertaining, and this was not only the first masquerade of the year, but was the first of its kind ever given in Honolulu. Among those present were Mr. Ernest Gay, the guest of honor; Miss Helen Wilder, Miss Rose Herbert, Miss Ethel Castle, Miss Myrtle Schuman, Miss Thelma Murphy, Miss Ruth Soper, Miss Rosemond Swanson, Miss Elizabeth Carter, Miss Phoebe Carter, Miss Maye Blven, Miss Margaret Jones, Miss Catherine Jones, Miss Carol Low, Miss Laura Low, Miss Mary von Holt, Miss Helen Spalding, Miss Dorothy Wood, Miss Ernestine McNear, Miss Edith Williams, Miss Fanny Hoogs, Miss Alice Hoogs, Miss Margaret Center, Miss Margaret Hestrick, Miss Lucy Dimond, Miss Kate Lidgate, Miss Carrie McLain, Miss Helen McLain, Miss

TEACH GIRLS HOUSEKEEPING

Kamehameha Senior Girls Will Conduct Dormitory on New Plan

An interesting advance in industrial training will be made at Kamehameha school for girls when the new dormitory now under construction is completed. "Heretofore domestic economy has been taught in the school by wholesome," said Hon. A. F. Judd, one of the Bishop estate trustees, in speaking of the matter this morning. "A few girls did the cooking for about a hundred persons."

In the new dormitory, which is for the senior class of eighteen, the girls will take turns in buying food and preparing it in a skillful manner for a small number. It is intended in this way to teach the girls the finer household economics, fitting them to manage homes of their own. They will be instructed not only in cooking raw food materials, but in making toothsome dishes of food left over at meals.

The dormitory is to be a semi-fireproof structure, having walls of concrete. Its estimated cost is $16,000. There will be a matron in charge of the girls, but they will do all their own housekeeping.

A general overhauling of the old buildings of the institution is being done in vacation, including an enlargement of the dining room.

RECREATIONS

"HAWAII," PICTURE PLAY HOUSE OPENS TOMORROW

Honolulu's newest picture house, the Hawaii, will open its doors to the theatergoers of the city tomorrow night with a program of four feature photo plays depicting comedy and pathos of the highest order.

The films will include "Officer Murray," a Selig production which relates a thrilling story of how a policeman lost and won his star. It shows incidents in police life of New York that few people know anything about.

Another film equally as interesting will be an Mesanar feature entitled "Broncho Billy's Narrow Escape." As the name would indicate, it's a thrilling cowboy picture of life out West. G. M. Anderson, the most noted dumb actor in the business today will be seen in the title role. He is a very familiar and popular character with the Honolulu audiences, who have seen him time and time again in Mesanar's cinematograph plays.

Two other pictures worthy of special mention will be "Gun Snugglers," an interesting picture of Mexican history, and "String of Beads," a Western story of love and fidelity which shows the girl of the Golden West as she really is.

Fred Noyes, the well-known impresario who has been connected with local shows for a number of years, will be in charge of the Hawaii, to which he brings invaluable knowledge of the wants of the Honolulu public in the picture line. He has recently returned from the mainland, whither he went to perfect arrangements for the sending of the best in the film lines for his cozy semi-open-air theater.

The theater will be open evenings at 8:30, with the first show starting at 7 o'clock and the second show at 8:30. The prices of admission have been placed at the exceedingly low figure of 10 and 15 cents.

Noyes and his associates, who have a very large clientele of friends, will no doubt make this independent theater the most popular in town. The theater is located on Hotel street, directly opposite the Empire; in the premises formerly occupied by the Savoy Theater. It has been renovated and remodeled and is now a very inviting place of amusement.

JEALOUS GIRL SCRATCHES MAN

Lottie Collins, Daughter of One-Time Famous Singer, Loses Temper at Dance

During the voyage from the Antipodes, which the Royal Mail liner Manuka completed yesterday, was given a series of dances on deck by night under the light of the moon and the tropical stars, says an exchange.

How one of these gay ocean affairs was rudely interrupted by a sensational scene was still being gossiped about by the travelers upon their arrival.

The episode, according to the story related, involved Miss Lottie Collins, a singer and dancer, whose father goes the rounds of the English music halls; Miss Lillian Heles, member of a distinguished Christchurch family, who is making a pleasure tour in company with Mrs. Florence Beswick, daughter of Sir James Mills, king of New Zealand's merchant marine, and Frank Armstrong, an athletic young coffee grower of Costa Rica.

It appears that from the time that the Manuka left Sydney on her voyage over the Pacific Armstrong paid such marked attention to the fair actress that the rumor spread aboard ship that the couple was engaged. At the musicals held in the social hall, when Miss Collins enthralled her fellow passengers with the songs which had brought the London "Johnnies" to her feet, it was always Armstrong who stood at the piano and turned the pages.

Now Miss Collins, like other members of the profession, has a temperament, or rather a temper, and she admits it, as her blue gray eyes flash with the stamp of her dainty foot. She is the daughter of Lottie Collins, who years ago had everybody singing "Ta-ra-a-boom-de-a-y," and she is as charmingly impulsive as her mother was.

To this temperament Miss Collins accounts for her yanking Armstrong's tie from the shirt front of his evening attire and making a few crisscrosses on his handsome face with her little pink nails.

The last dance held on board was the occasion of the sensation, say the passengers. Miss Collins was playing a waltzing waltz on the piano while the others whirled gayly around the decks.

Suddenly, so the story goes, she espied Armstrong dancing with Miss Hales. The music ceased abruptly and the next thing Armstrong knew his white neckscarf was being trampled beneath the actress' feet.

Miss Collins then returned to the piano and the dance was on again. Armstrong continued the mazurka of waltz with his fair partner, only to have Miss Collins quit the keys once more and fly upon him, this time scratching his face.

It was too much for the dancers. They fled, panic stricken. During the remainder of the voyage the two rivals simply glared at one another, say the passengers.

"But now we're better friends than ever," Mr. Armstrong and I," said Miss Collins, when asked about the incident which was on the tip of the other passengers' tongues.

And Armstrong agreed with her. "My word, of course we are," he laughed gingerly, running his fingers across the scratches, which were still visible.
